It appears that the competing heirs in the present case are the daughter of the deceased Gulam Mohamed Alijan and her two uncles. It is not known whether the parties are governed by the Shia or Hanafi law of inheritance. If the Shia law of Inheritance is applicable thexx daughter would be a preferential heir while of if the Hanafi law of inheritance is applicable the daughter would be entitled to 1/2 as sharex and the uncles to 1/4th each as residuaries. Further there is another difficulty. The uncles are contending that the daughter is an illegitimate child. An illegitimate daughter does not inherit from her father. In view of these difficulties it is desirable to refer the parties to a Court of law to obtain a succession certificate.
